Order Adopting in Part and Report and Recommendation; Granting in Part and Denying in Part Motion for Default Judgment; and Closing Case

[ECF Nos. 47, 55]

10 This is one of several essentially identical cases filed by plaintiff LHF 11 Productions, Inc., in which LHF sues many unidentified Doe defendants—under a 12 single filing fee—for separately infringing its copyright in the film “London Has 13 Fallen” by using BitTorrent software. LHF’s practice in these cases is to move for 14 expedited discovery to identify the defendants, and then systematically dismiss the 15 defendants after failing to serve them or settling with them.<sup>1</sup> Magistrate Judge 16 Nancy Koppe recommends that I sever and dismiss all claims against all defendants 17 other than defendant Derrick Boughton for improper joinder and in the interests of 18 judicial economy and case management.<sup>2</sup> LHF objects to the recommendation, 19 arguing that the defendants were properly joined under Federal Rule of Civil 20 Procedure 20(a)(2), and that mass joinder—“swarm joinder” as it is called in the 21 BitTorrent-defendant context—better serves the economic and efficiency interests of 22 the parties and the court.<sup>3</sup> After a full review of the report and recommendation, 28 <sup>3</sup> I find these matters suitable for disposition without oral argument. L.R. 78-1.

1 and LHF's objection and exhibits, and an exhaustive review of the case law, I agree
2 with the magistrate judge's recommendation and overrule LHF's objection.<sup>4</sup>

3 LHF also moves for default judgment against the remaining defendants, 4 requesting $15,000 in statutory damages, $7,550 in attorney's fees and costs, and a 5 permanent injunction against each defendant. I deny the motion as moot in part 6 because I sever and dismiss all but one of the defendants from this case, but I grant 7 the motion against un-severed defendant Boughton.

8 Background

9 These copyright-infringement swarm joinder cases against users of 10 BitTorrent software have significantly increased in popularity nationwide in the 11 past five years with some plaintiffs filing against thousands of defendants in a 12 single action,<sup>5</sup> other plaintiffs filing against defendants in groups of roughly 13 10–100<sup>6</sup>, and at least one plaintiff filing over one thousand cases against individual 14 defendants.<sup>7</sup> The defendants are discovered and targeted by their internet provider 15 (IP) addresses, which register on the BitTorrent tracker when they download the 16 plaintiff's film. Safety Point Products, LLC v. Does describes the BitTorrent 17 protocol well:

18 19 <sup>4</sup> I do not, however, share the magistrate judge's characterization of the state of the 20 law, and I do not decide whether swarm joinder satisfies Rule 20(a)(2). So, 21 although I do not adopt those portions of the report, I agree with—and adopt—its ultimate recommendation.

1 BitTorrent is a program that enables users to share files
2 via the internet. Unlike other "peer-to-peer" (P2P) file 3 sharing networks that transfer files between users or 4 between a user and a central computer server, BitTorrent
5 allows for decentralized file sharing between individual 6 users who exchange small segments of a file between one 7 another until the entire file has been downloaded by each 8 user. Each user that either uploads or downloads a file 9 segment is known as a "peer." Peers that have the entire 10 file are known as "seeds." Other peers, known as 11 "leeches" can simultaneously download and upload the 12 pieces of the shared file until they have downloaded the 13 entire file to become seeds.

8 Groups of peers that download and upload the same file 9 during a given period are known as a "swarm," with each 10 peer being identified by a unique series of alphanumeric 11 characters known as "hashtag" that is attached to each 12 piece of the file. The swarm's members are relatively 13 anonymous, as each participant is identifiable only by her 14 Internet Provider (IP) address. Overseeing and 15 coordinating the entire process is a computer or server 16 known as a "tracker" that maintains a record of which 17 peers in a swarm have which files at a given time. In 18 order to increase the likelihood of a successful download, 19 any portion of the file downloaded by a peer is available to 20 subsequent peers in the swarm so long as the peer 21 remains online.

16 But BitTorrent is not one large monolith. BitTorrent is a 17 computer protocol, used by various software programs 18 known as "clients" to engage in electronic file-sharing.
19 Clients are software programs that connect peers to one 20 another and distributes data among the peers. But a 21 peer's involvement in a swarm does not end with a 22 successful download. Instead, the BitTorrent client 23 distributes data until the peer manually disconnects from 24 the swarm. It is only then that a given peer no longer 25 participates in a given BitTorrent swarm.<sup>8</sup>

21 LHF alleges that its film has been pirated by BitTorrent users 79,404,331 22 times worldwide, 16,799,795 times in the United States, and 113,962 times in 23 Nevada.<sup>9</sup> Of those 113,962 alleged infringers, LHF identified the 1–2% most

1 egregious offenders and filed suit against them in sets of 10–30 Does per case.<sup>10</sup>
2 Once those 10–30 Does in each case are identified, LHF somehow narrows them 3 down even further to 10 or fewer, and then, allegedly, to the extent that any 4 defendant raises a distinct defense or cause of action, that defendant would be 5 severed into a separate cause of action.<sup>11</sup> LHF claims that this process “is designed 6 to impose the least expense on all parties involved—including the Court.”<sup>12</sup> LHF 7 brought this particular case against 18 initially unidentified defendants. After 8 learning their identities, LHF amended its complaint against 11 named defendants, 9 and then LHF proceeded to dismiss them from the case.<sup>13</sup> Only five defendants now 10 remain: Derrick Boughton, Jose Gallego, Tom Gyarfas, Daniell Templeton, and 11 Kristina Walsh.

12 Discussion

13 A. Standard of review

14 When a party objects to a magistrate judge’s findings and recommendations, 15 a district court judge must “make a de novo determination of those portions of the 16 report or specified proposed findings or recommendations to which objection is 17 made.”<sup>14</sup> The district court judge “may accept, reject, or modify in whole or in part, 18 the findings or recommendations made by the magistrate.”<sup>15</sup>

1 B. The swarm-joinder split of authority

2 Joining multiple John/Jane Doe participants in a BitTorrent swarm into a 3 single action is commonly referred to as “swarm joinder.”<sup>16</sup> Because the defendants 4 are initially unidentified, the plaintiff files an ex parte motion for expedited
5 discovery to subpoena internet service providers (ISPs) for the names and addresses 6 of defendants associated with specified IP addresses. The motion raises two issues: 7 (1) whether the defendants are properly joined; and (2) whether the court should 8 permit the expedited discovery.<sup>17</sup> “Courts have dealt with the issue in several ways:
9 denying the discovery requests, severing all but the first Doe defendants, delaying 10 the severance decision until after the Does have been identified, or approving both 11 joinder and pre-service discovery.”<sup>18</sup>

12 The procedural posture of this case tracks the delay-severance decision 13 option. Magistrate Judge Koppe granted LHF’s expedited discovery requests,<sup>19</sup> and 14 then she ordered LHF to show cause why the identified defendants shouldn’t be 28 <sup>19</sup> ECF No. 6.

1 severed from the first defendant and dismissed in each of its cases.<sup>20</sup> Judge Koppe, 2 after conducting her own extensive research on swarm joinder, ultimately 3 recommended that I sever and dismiss from this case the claims against all 4 defendants except defendant Boughton.<sup>21</sup> LHF objected to that recommendation, so 5 I now determine whether the defendants were properly joined and whether 6 severance is appropriate.

7       There is a major split of authority on this issue. Only one circuit court—the 8 D.C. Circuit—has ruled on the issue, finding that swarm joinder does not satisfy 9 FRCP 20(a)(2) because the defendants' use of the same BitTorrent protocol to 10 download the same file does not arise out of the same transaction or occurrence.<sup>22</sup>
11 The district courts in every other circuit and even the judges within some districts 12 widely disagree on whether to permit swarm joinder. Some courts hold that swarm 13 joinder is appropriate under FRCP 20(a)(2).<sup>23</sup> Other courts hold as the D.C. Circuit
14 does.<sup>24</sup> And still others exercise their discretion to manage their dockets and sever 15 the defendants even if swarm joinder would technically be permissible under the 16 FRCP because other factors outweigh the benefits conferred by joinder: judicial 17 economy, the high burden on the defendants, the risk of inappropriate settlement

23 <sup>30</sup> LHF argues that Arizona has abandoned its position and now openly allows 24 swarm joinder and consolidates cases involving defendants from the same swarm.
25 LHF supports that position with 86 pages of docket reports—no orders or legal 26 analysis—showing that expedited-discovery motions were granted in every case 27 without severing the defendants. These reports are not persuasive because they do 28 not tell me that Arizona permits swarm joinder under Rule 20(a)(2) and in the interests of judicial efficiency. I am especially unpersuaded because expedited discovery was granted earlier in this case without severing any defendants, and I now find that swarm joinder is improper.

<sup>31</sup> LHF argues that Hawaii has addressed the issue and permits swarm joinder.
LHF supports that argument with an order granting expedited discovery from a magistrate judge that does not discuss the joinder issue at all. The order analyzes only the standard for permitting early discovery to identify defendants. This does not mean that the District of Hawaii addressed the swarm-joinder issue and permitted it. It merely means that the magistrate judge did not exercise his

1 The only thing that is firmly established about this issue is that there is no uniform 2 protocol.

3 I do not decide today whether the defendants' actions were part of the same 4 transaction or occurrence to satisfy Rule 20(a)(2). Even if Rule 20(a)(2) were 5 satisfied, I would still exercise my discretion under Rule 21<sup>32</sup> and sever all 6 defendants except the first one, Derrick Boughton, because joining them causes 7 more harm than good.<sup>33</sup>

8 I find most persuasive Magistrate Judge Sorokin's analysis on the issue and 9 his conclusion that swarm joinder is not likely to promote judicial efficiency.<sup>34</sup> As 10 Judge Sorokin opined, "the claims against each defendant are likely to turn on 11 individual defenses (e.g., 'my wireless internet service is not password protected,' 'I 12 didn't watch it, my adolescent child did,' or 'that is not my IP address'), and each 13 will require a separate 'mini-trial.'"<sup>35</sup> "Joinder would transform an otherwise 14 straightforward case into a logistical nightmare. For example, each defendant 15 would be required to serve any motion or other submission on the . . . other 16 defendants, and all . . . defendants would have a right to be present at any

19 20 discretion sua sponte to analyze whether joinder was proper and recommend his 21 finding to a district judge. At best, he temporarily acquiesced in the swarm-joinder.

22 <sup>32</sup> Fed. R. Civ. P. 21 ("On motion or on its own, the court may at any time, on just 23 terms, add or drop a party. The court may also sever any claim against a party.").

24 <sup>33</sup> Fed. R. Civ. P. 20(b) ("The court may issue orders—including an order for 25 separate trials—to protect a party against embarrassment, delay, expense, or other 26 prejudice that arises from including a person against whom the party asserts no claim and who asserts no claim against the party.").

1 deposition or court proceeding.”<sup>36</sup> “If consolidation of certain pretrial proceedings 2 were deemed appropriate, it could be accomplished via Rule 42(a), after the 3 institution of individual actions against each defendant.”<sup>37</sup> Finally, severance 4 prevents inappropriate settlement leverage and filing-fee evasion.<sup>38</sup>

5 LHF argues that the defendants would benefit from swarm joinder because 6 they could pool their resources and share in one another’s defenses, representation, 7 and other strategies, and if any defendant had a unique defense then LHF would 8 move to sever that defendant into a separate case. I find that those benefits to the 9 defendants do not outweigh the potential burdens imposed on them considering the 10 varied and extensive motion practice that is typical of contemporary litigation, the 11 scheduling conflicts that would inevitably arise when deposing each party, and the 12 likelihood of confusing the issues and parties should the action proceed to trial.

13 LHF also argues that prohibiting swarm joinder would make copyright 14 enforcement too costly and allow BitTorrent users to continue their infringing 15 activities undeterred and cause “substantial damage to the entertainment industry 16 and our economy as a whole. It would essentially serve as an abdication of judicial 17 authority from the Court—a move that would compromise the rule of law and fly in 18 the face of two centuries of jurisprudence.”<sup>39</sup> I don’t share this apocalyptic prophecy, 19 and LHF’s own objection belies its position.

20 LHF mentions that prohibiting swarm joinder would “likely increase the final

1 dollar amount of judgment awards entered against individual [d]efendants.”<sup>40</sup> 2 Those “likely” higher judgment awards would surely offset LHF’s concern that 3 individual cases would be too costly to file. The copyright-enforcement business 4 model that LHF and many other plaintiffs in these swarm-joinder cases follow<sup>41</sup> 5 imposes a greater burden on the courts and defendants than the burden imposed on 6 the plaintiff by severance. Courts have held that cost effectiveness is not sufficient 7 to justify swarm joinder.<sup>42</sup> To borrow the sentiment expressed by the court in On 8 The Cheap, LLC v. Does 1–5011, I do “not condone copyright infringement and [I 9 do] encourage[] settlement of genuine disputes. However, [LHF]’s desire to enforce 10 its copyright in what it asserts is a cost-effective manner does not justify perverting 11 the joinder rules to first create . . . management and logistical problems . . . and 12 then offer to settle with Doe defendants so that they can avoid digging themselves 13 out of the morass [that LHF] is creating.”<sup>43</sup> So I adopt Judge Koppe’s 14 recommendation to sever and dismiss all defendants except for Derrick Boughton 15 from this case without prejudice to LHF’s ability to refile separate lawsuits against 16 them.

1 LHF also moves for default judgment against defendants Boughton, Gallego, 2 Gyarfas, Templeton, and Walsh. Because I sever and dismiss the claims against 3 Gallego, Gyarfas, Templeton, and Walsh from this action for improper joinder, the 4 motion is moot against them, and I deny it. I now address the motion as it pertains 5 to defendant Boughton.

6 1. Background

7 After identifying Boughton, LHF sent a demand letter informing Boughton of 8 this case and his potential liability.<sup>44</sup> Boughton did not respond, so LHF sent him a 9 second demand letter approximately three weeks later.<sup>45</sup> LHF filed its first-10 amended complaint three weeks after that and sent Boughton a third demand 11 letter.<sup>46</sup> Despite adequate service of process, Boughton did not respond to the first-12 amended complaint or demand letter.<sup>47</sup> The Clerk of Court entered default against 13 Boughton on May 8, 2017.<sup>48</sup> LHF now moves for default judgment, requesting 14 $15,000 in statutory damages, $6,570 in attorney's fees and costs, and a permanent 15 injunction to prohibit Boughton from further infringing its copyright directly or 16 indirectly.<sup>49</sup>

17 2. Default judgment standard

18 Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 55(b)(2) permits a plaintiff to obtain default 19 judgment if the clerk previously entered default based on a defendant's failure to 20 defend. After entry of default, the complaint's factual allegations are taken as true,

1 except those relating to damages.<sup>50</sup> “[N]ecessary facts not contained in the 2 pleadings, and claims [that] are legally insufficient, are not established by 3 default.”<sup>51</sup> The court has the power to require a plaintiff to provide additional proof 4 of facts or damages in order to ensure that the requested relief is appropriate.<sup>52</sup> 5 Whether to grant a motion for default judgment lies within my discretion,<sup>53</sup> which is 6 guided by the seven factors outlined by the Ninth Circuit in Eitel v. McCool:

7 (1) the possibility of prejudice to the plaintiff; (2) the 8 merits of plaintiff’s substantive claim; (3) sufficiency of 9 the complaint; (4) the sum of money at stake in the action;
10 (5) the possibility of a dispute concerning material facts;
(6) whether the default was due to excusable neglect; and
(7) the strong policy underlying the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure favoring decisions on the merits.<sup>54</sup>

11 A default judgment is generally disfavored because “[c]ases should be decided upon 12 their merits whenever reasonably possible.”<sup>55</sup>

13 3. Evaluating the Eitel factors

14 a. Possibility of prejudice to LHF

15 The first Eitel factor weighs in favor of granting default judgment against 16 Boughton. LHF sent Boughton numerous demand letters and a summons along 17 with the first-amended complaint, but Boughton never responded. LHF claims that 18 Boughton infringed its copyright by downloading its film using BitTorrent software.

1 Given the nature of BitTorrent software, Boughton may be exacerbating LHF's 2 injury by seeding the file to the BitTorrent swarm.

3 b. Substantive merits and sufficiency of the claims

4 The second and third Eitel factors require LHF to demonstrate that it has 5 stated a claim on which it may recover.<sup>56</sup> The first-amended complaint sufficiently 6 pleads LHF's direct-copyright-infringement, contributory-copyright-infringement, 7 and vicarious-liability claims.

8 To present a prima facie case of direct infringement, LHF must show that: (1) 9 it owns the allegedly infringed material, and (2) the alleged infringers violate at 10 least one exclusive right granted to copyright holders under 17 U.S.C. § 106.<sup>57</sup> LHF 11 alleges that it is the owner of the copyright registration for the film "London Has 12 Fallen."<sup>58</sup> LHF also alleges that Boughton willfully violated several exclusive rights 13 granted by 17 U.S.C. § 106, and that those violations caused it to suffer damages.<sup>59</sup>

14 The contributory-copyright-infringement claim requires LHF to allege that 15 Boughton "had knowledge of the infringing activity" and "induce[d], cause[d], or 16 materially contribute[d] to the infringing conduct of another."<sup>60</sup> "Put differently, 17 liability exists if the defendant engages in personal conduct that encourages or 18 assists the infringement."<sup>61</sup> Given the nature of BitTorrent technology, BitTorrent-

1 swarm participants who download files compulsorily upload those same files so that 2 other participants may download them at a faster rate. Accordingly, LHF's 3 allegation that each defendant is a contributory copyright infringer because they 4 participated in a BitTorrent swarm<sup>62</sup> is sufficient to satisfy the induced-caused-or-5 contributed requirement. LHF satisfies the remaining requirements by alleging 6 that each defendant knew or should have known that other BitTorrent swarm 7 participants were directly infringing on LHF's copyright by downloading the files 8 that they each uploaded.<sup>63</sup>

9 LHF also claims that each defendant, as the account holder for the Internet 10 service, is vicariously liable for any infringing activity conducted by other users on 11 its Internet connection.<sup>64</sup> "Vicarious infringement is a concept related to, but 12 distinct from, contributory infringement."<sup>65</sup> "To state a claim for vicarious copyright 13 infringement, [LHF] must allege that [Boughton] had (1) the right and ability to 14 supervise the infringing conduct and (2) a direct financial interest in the infringing 15 activity."<sup>66</sup>

16 LHF's allegations satisfy the first prong of the vicarious-infringement test.
17 As the court discussed in Dallas Buyers Club, LLC v. Doughty, "the Internet service 18 account holder, appea[rs] to have had exclusive control over use of the Internet 19 service" and the account holder "could have simply secured access to the Internet by 20 creating a password or by changing an already existing password."<sup>67</sup> "Thus, . . . [the

2 infringing third party if he believed it was being used to violate applicable law.”<sup>68</sup>

3 LHF also satisfies the direct-financial-interest prong. “The essential aspect 4 of the direct financial benefit inquiry is whether there is a causal relationship 5 between the infringing activity and any financial benefit a defendant reaps, 6 regardless of how substantial the benefit is in proportion to a defendant’s overall 7 profits.”<sup>69</sup> “Financial benefit exists where the availability of infringing material
8 acts as a ‘draw’ for customers.”<sup>70</sup> “The size of the ‘draw’ relative to a defendant’s 9 overall business is immaterial. A defendant receives a ‘direct financial benefit’ from 10 a third-party infringement so long as the infringement of third parties acts as a 11 ‘draw’ for customers ‘regardless of how substantial the benefit is in proportion to a 12 defendant’s overall profits.”<sup>71</sup> LHF alleges that Boughton benefitted from third-13 party infringement by viewing “London Has Fallen” without paying for it.<sup>72</sup> The 14 law is clear that it doesn’t matter how large the financial benefit is: by watching the 15 BitTorrent-downloaded film, Boughton saved the cost of a movie ticket, and that is 16 a direct financial benefit.

17 I therefore find that LHF sufficiently pled each of its claims in the first-18 amended complaint. I also find that LHF’s claims have substantive merit, subject 19 to any defenses that Boughton could raise.

1 The sum-of-money factor requires me to consider “the amount of money at 2 stake in relation to the seriousness of [Boughton]’s conduct.”<sup>73</sup> “If the sum of money 3 at stake is completely disproportionate or inappropriate, default judgment is 4 disfavored.”<sup>74</sup> LHF asks for statutory damages and attorney’s fees and costs.

5 For statutory damages, LHF requests $15,000 under 17 U.S.C. § 504(c).<sup>75</sup> 6 The statute sets a $750 minimum and a $30,000 maximum award of damages for 7 copyright infringement,<sup>76</sup> and that maximum can be increased up to $150,000 where 8 the infringement was willful.<sup>77</sup> I have “wide discretion in determining the amount 9 of statutory damages to be awarded, constrained only by the specified maxima and 10 minima.”<sup>78</sup>

11 Given Boughton’s numerous opportunities to respond to LHF’s demand 12 letters, first-amended complaint, and this motion, coupled with LHF’s unopposed 13 allegations that I take as true, the factual showing before me indicates that 14 Boughton is a willful copyright infringer. But I do not find that $15,000 is 15 necessary to compensate LHF for its injury and to deter Boughton and other 16 BitTorrent users. Although I acknowledge that other courts—even in LHF’s other 17 cases in another district—awarded $15,000 for the same offense, I am not 18 persuaded by their actions. After considering the lost-profits movie ticket sales, the

1 cost of identifying infringers and pursuing litigation, and the boundaries provided 2 by § 504(c), I determine that $1,500 is the appropriate damage award. This 3 amount—187.5 times as much as the average $8.00 per movie ticket suggested by 4 LHF<sup>79</sup>—adequately accomplishes the goals of § 504(c) to protect copyrighted works 5 and deter infringement. This amount is also not excessive because it is only 1% of 6 the statutory maximum for willful infringement.

7 The Copyright Act also allows courts to award the recovery of full costs and 8 reasonable attorney's fees to the prevailing party as part of those costs.<sup>80</sup> LHF, in 9 applying the lodestar method,<sup>81</sup> moves for $6,750 in attorney's fees<sup>82</sup> and $800 in 10 costs, for a total of $7,550. The total sum of money at stake, then, is $9,050, and I 11 find that this factor weighs in favor of default judgment.

12 d. Possibility of a dispute concerning material facts

13 Next I consider the possibility that material facts are disputed. LHF 14 adequately alleged three copyright-infringement claims against Boughton.
15 Boughton failed to appear or otherwise respond, so he admitted as true all of the 16 material facts alleged in LHF's complaint. Because those facts are presumed true 17 and Boughton failed to oppose this motion, no factual disputes exist that would 18 preclude the entry of default judgment against him.

19 e. Excusable neglect

20 Under this factor, I consider whether Boughton's default may have resulted 21 from excusable neglect. LHF sent Boughton two demand letters roughly six and

1 three weeks prior to filing its first-amended complaint. Boughton did not respond 2 to either of them. Then LHF filed its first-amended complaint on November 10, 3 2016, and sent Boughton a third demand letter. He did not respond to that letter
4 either. LHF served Boughton with process on February 6, 2017, and Boughton
5 failed to appear or file an answer to the first amended complaint. Five and a half 6 months later, LHF moved for default judgment, and Boughton, once again, did not 7 respond. Boughton demonstrated has a habit of ignoring LHF, so I can only 8 conclude that his default was not the product of excusable neglect. This factor thus 9 weighs in favor of entering default judgment.

10 f. Favoring decisions on the merits

11 “Generally, default judgments are disfavored because cases should be decided 12 upon their merits whenever reasonably possible.”<sup>83</sup> Because Boughton has failed to 13 respond to anything at all in this action, it is not possible to decide this case on its 14 merits, so this factor, too, weighs in favor of default judgment. As every factor 15 weighs in favor of entering default judgment, I grant LHF’s motion as it pertains to 16 Boughton.

17 4. Permanent injunction

18 As its final claim for relief, LHF asks for a permanent injunction enjoining 19 Boughton from “directly or indirectly infringing [its] rights” over its film 20 “including[,] without limitation[,] using the Internet to reproduce, to distribute, to 21 copy, or to publish the motion picture.”<sup>84</sup> The Copyright Act allows me to “grant

4 available at law, such as monetary damages, are inadequate to compensate for that 5 injury; (3) that, considering the balance of hardships between the plaintiff and 6 defendant, a remedy in equity is warranted; and (4) that the public interest would 7 not be disserved by a permanent injunction.”<sup>87</sup> This test also applies to copyright-8 infringement cases.<sup>88</sup>

9 LHF argues that “[m]onetary damages alone are simply inadequate” because 10 “absent injunctive relief to force the deletion of each torrent file from the 11 Defendants’ computers . . . infringement will continue unabated in exponential 12 fashion.”<sup>89</sup> Because Boughton is the only remaining defendant after my severance 13 and dismissal of Gallego, Gyarfas, Templeton, and Walsh, I only consider whether 14 monetary damages are sufficient to deter Boughton’s infringing activity. I conclude 15 that a monetary judgment of $9,050 is sufficient to compensate LHF for any 16 infringement injury and likely to sufficiently deter Boughton from infringing LHF’s 17 copyright, so LHF fails to satisfy the second factor of the permanent-injunction test, 18 and I deny its request for injunctive relief.

19 Conclusion

20 Accordingly, IT IS HEREBY ORDERED that LHF’s objection to Magistrate 21 Judge Koppe’s report and recommendation is OVERRULED and Magistrate Judge 22 Koppe’s report and recommendation [ECF No. 47] is ACCEPTED and ADOPTED

1 in part and REJECTED in part. I adopt Judge Koppe's conclusion that swarm 2 joinder is discretionarily improper and her ultimate recommendation to sever and 3 dismiss all claims except those against Boughton.

4 IT IS FURTHER ORDERED that all claims against defendants Gallego, 5 Gyarfas, Templeton, and Walsh are SEVERED and DISMISSED from this case 6 without prejudice to LHF's ability to bring these claims in new, separate actions.

7 IT IS FURTHER ORDERED that LHF's motion for default judgment [ECF 8 No. 55] is DENIED as moot with respect to Gallego, Gyarfas, Templeton, and 9 Walsh and GRANTED with respect to Boughton. I award LHF $1,500 in statutory 10 damages and $7,550 in reasonable attorney's fees and costs for a total of $9,050. I 11 decline to issue a permanent injunction against Boughton.

12 The Clerk of Court is directed to ENTER JUDGMENT in favor of LHF 13 Productions, Inc. and against Derrick Boughton in the total amount of $9,050 and 14 CLOSE THIS CASE.
